The "My Family's Jobs" Project

"Hey, team, come here, please!" Ellie announced. Her bright blue eyes sparkled with excitement. Beste and Mete joined her under the big pine tree in the school garden. It was a sunny morning, and there was a school-day energy in the air.

"Ms Aksoy just told me about the "My Family's Jobs' project. We have to interview our family members about their jobs and present it next week!" Ellie continued.

"That's great! I love these kinds of projects," said Beste happily.

Mete looks excited. "This is going to be cool!" he said. Ellie clapped her hands. "Perfect! We can help each other. My grandma is a doctor. She works at a hospital and takes care of patients. My dad is an architect; he designs special houses like bungalows and tiny houses in the countryside. I can interview them," she said.

"My uncle's a musician. I can ask him to help us." said Beste.

"My cousin's a journalist," Mete added excitedly. "She writes news stories and takes photos. I can't wait to interview her!" he said.

"Great! I think Ms Aksoy will like our project so much," Ellie said.

"I hope so, but it's not fair that we just have one week!" complained Beste.

"Don't worry, we'll do our best, Beste," said Ellie.

"Sure! I believe it, too," answered Beste.

Ellie's Doctor Grandmother

Ellie decided to interview her grandmother. She found her in the kitchen. She was wearing a thin jumper, a purple headscarf, and a long light brown skirt.

"Granny, can I interview you for my school project?" Ellie asked.

Her grandmother smiled, "Of course, sweetheart. What do you want to know?"

"Well, I want to learn about your day at the hospital."

"OK. Come here, honey. Let's start. I wake up very early in the morning and usually have a quick breakfast.

storybook2.indd 6 2.10.2025 13:26

storybook2.indd 7 2.10.2025 13:26

I always wear my special uniform. Then I go to work and start to examine my patients. I see a lot of different people every day. Sometimes I have to give medicine to them. It's a really hard and tiring job, but I love helping people."

"Have you got any special tools or equipment?"

"Of course! I often use thermometers, stethoscopes, and sometimes some special tools to examine my patients."

"What's the funniest thing that's ever happened while you're at work?" Ellie asked.

Her grandmother thought and said, "Hmm, once, a little boy swallowed a tiny puzzle piece. He was fine. I asked him how it happened. He just looked at me innocently. He said, 'It looked yummy!' I almost laughed right there in the examination room!"

Ellie laughed. "Oh, that was funny! So, you're always busy, aren't you?"

"That's right, honey. I usually finish work around 5 p.m., then I come home and rest. Sometimes I'm so tired but it is always worth helping people,"

"Oh, I see. Thank you, granny," said Ellie.

"You're welcome, dear," said her grandmother politely.

Beste's Musician Uncle

Beste was a bit nervous about interviewing her uncle, Mr Tuncer. He was serious but kind. He had got a short beard and dark wavy short hair. He always wore trousers and a shirt. She found him on the porch. He was sitting in his wheelchair.

"Can I ask you some questions for my project, Uncle?," Beste asked shyly.

"Certainly," he replied.

"What does a musician do, especially in an orchestra?"

"Well, I work with a group of talented people in an orchestra. I play the cello, and we perform in a concert

storybook2.indd 9 2.10.2025 13:26

hall. I practise many hours like the other musicians. We often meet to rehearse new pieces. Playing beautiful music is so relaxing."

"Did you see anything funny at your concerts?" asked Beste.

"Oh, definitely!" smiled Beste's uncle. "Once, we were playing a classical piece. Suddenly, a little bird flew into the concert hall. It landed on the conductor's head!"

"Really?" said Beste.

"Yes. He kept conducting, trying not to laugh. We all tried to be serious, but it was impossible! He looked so funny!"

"Wow! It was a really funny event!" Beste laughed.

"What's the most interesting performance you've ever attended?"

"That's a good question! Once, I played in a special concert in the city centre. It was amazing! We played a perfect symphony, and the energy of the audience was incredible. It was a great performance. Hearing the applause at the end of our performance was wonderful,"

"So, you are always performing, aren't you?"

"Yes! I usually finish work around 7 p.m. after

storybook2.indd 10 2.10.2025 13:26

storybook2.indd 11 2.10.2025 13:26

rehearsals. Then I usually come home and spend time with my family,"

"You've got an amazing job, Uncle. Thank you for this interview," Beste said.

"You're welcome, dear," Beste's uncle said politely. "Maybe I'll come to your school and play the cello for your friends."

"Wow, that'll be great!" Beste said excitedly and hugged his uncle joyfully.

Mete's Journalist Cousin

Mete was so excited. He was wearing his blue hoodie and jeans. He was ready for the interview with his cousin, Yıldız. She was a pretty woman with long curly blonde hair, hazel eyes, and a friendly face. She always wore fashionable clothes. Today, she was wearing a yellow dress and pink shoes. They were ready for the interview at a café.

"Tell me all about being a journalist, please!" Mete asked. His cousin laughed. "All right, little interviewer! I work in an office. I find interesting stories, interview people, and write news in my column in the newspaper. I sometimes take photos and videos. I travel a lot. That is exciting."

"What kind of stories do you write?"

"A lot of different stories! From local events to international news. I usually write about serious topics

storybook2.indd 13 2.10.2025 13:26

storybook2.indd 14 2.10.2025 13:26

and sometimes, I write just for fun. I always try to be very careful and make sure that the news is true."

"Are there any interesting things that have happened while you were reporting?"

"Oh, there are so many! Let me think! Once, I was interviewing a farmer about his cows and sheep. One of the cows suddenly began to chase me around the farm! I was running, trying to hold my microphone, and the farmer was just standing there, laughing! I was wearing my best flats that day, and they were covered in mud!" Mete laughed a lot. "That's hilarious! You've got truly an interesting job. So, you're always interviewing people, aren't you?"

"That's right! I love my job so much. Learning about new lives is so interesting and enjoyable, but this interview is the most enjoyable one!" Mete's cousin said.

"Thank you so much, my dear cousin!" Mete said happily.

The School Presentation

It was the presentation day. The children were a little nervous but also excited. Ms Aksoy was wearing a green dress and a beautiful silver necklace.

First, Ellie described her grandmother's job confidently. "She is very hardworking and she helps a lot of people at the hospital."

After that, Beste began to talk about her uncle. She was a bit shy at first. "He works hard and plays the cello very well."

Finally, Mete presented his cousin's adventurous life as a journalist. "She's very creative and brave. She travels a lot and writes amazing stories."

Their classmates loved their presentations, and Ms Aksoy was proud of them.

The Unexpected Visitor

Just as they finished, the classrooms door opened, and Beste's uncle, Mr Tuncer, came in with one of his friends. His friend was carrying a large bag. "I hope I'm not too late! I wanted to surprise you," said Beste's uncle.

Beste's eyes opened wide. "Uncle! You came!"

"Of course, dear!" He opened the bag and took his cello out.

All the children cheered happily. He played a beautiful song on his cello. Everybody applauded loudly at the end of the song.

A Bright Future

After school, the three friends walked home together.

"Your uncle is so cool, Beste!" said Ellie. "I wonder which job I'll do when I grow up."

"Me too," Beste agreed. "I think I want to be a scientist, like my aunt. She works in a laboratory and discovers new things."

"I think I want to be an explorer. I can travel the world and write about my adventures, just like my cousin. Perhaps I'll even buy a caravan!" said Mete.

They all laughed and they were excited about their futures. They always had funny stories to tell, just like their families.
